Huntington County Community High School

Huntington, Indiana

Volume 3

Yesterday, today, and tomorrow

Traditions plus new ideas were combined in 1967 as Huntington County Community High School came into existence. In the past three school years numerous changes and adjustments were adopted to compensate for the unification of 2200 county-wide students into a consolidated system. Two former schools developed into a temporarily divided campus. The spring of 1968 saw relief for this division with the beginning of construction on a new senior high school which would house all students in grades ten through twelve. Former traditions, events, and clubs were maintained along with the creation of new organizations and activities. 1969 held many anticipations as the faces of Huntington County remembered yesterday, experienced today, and beheld tomorrow.

reflects the many phases of construction

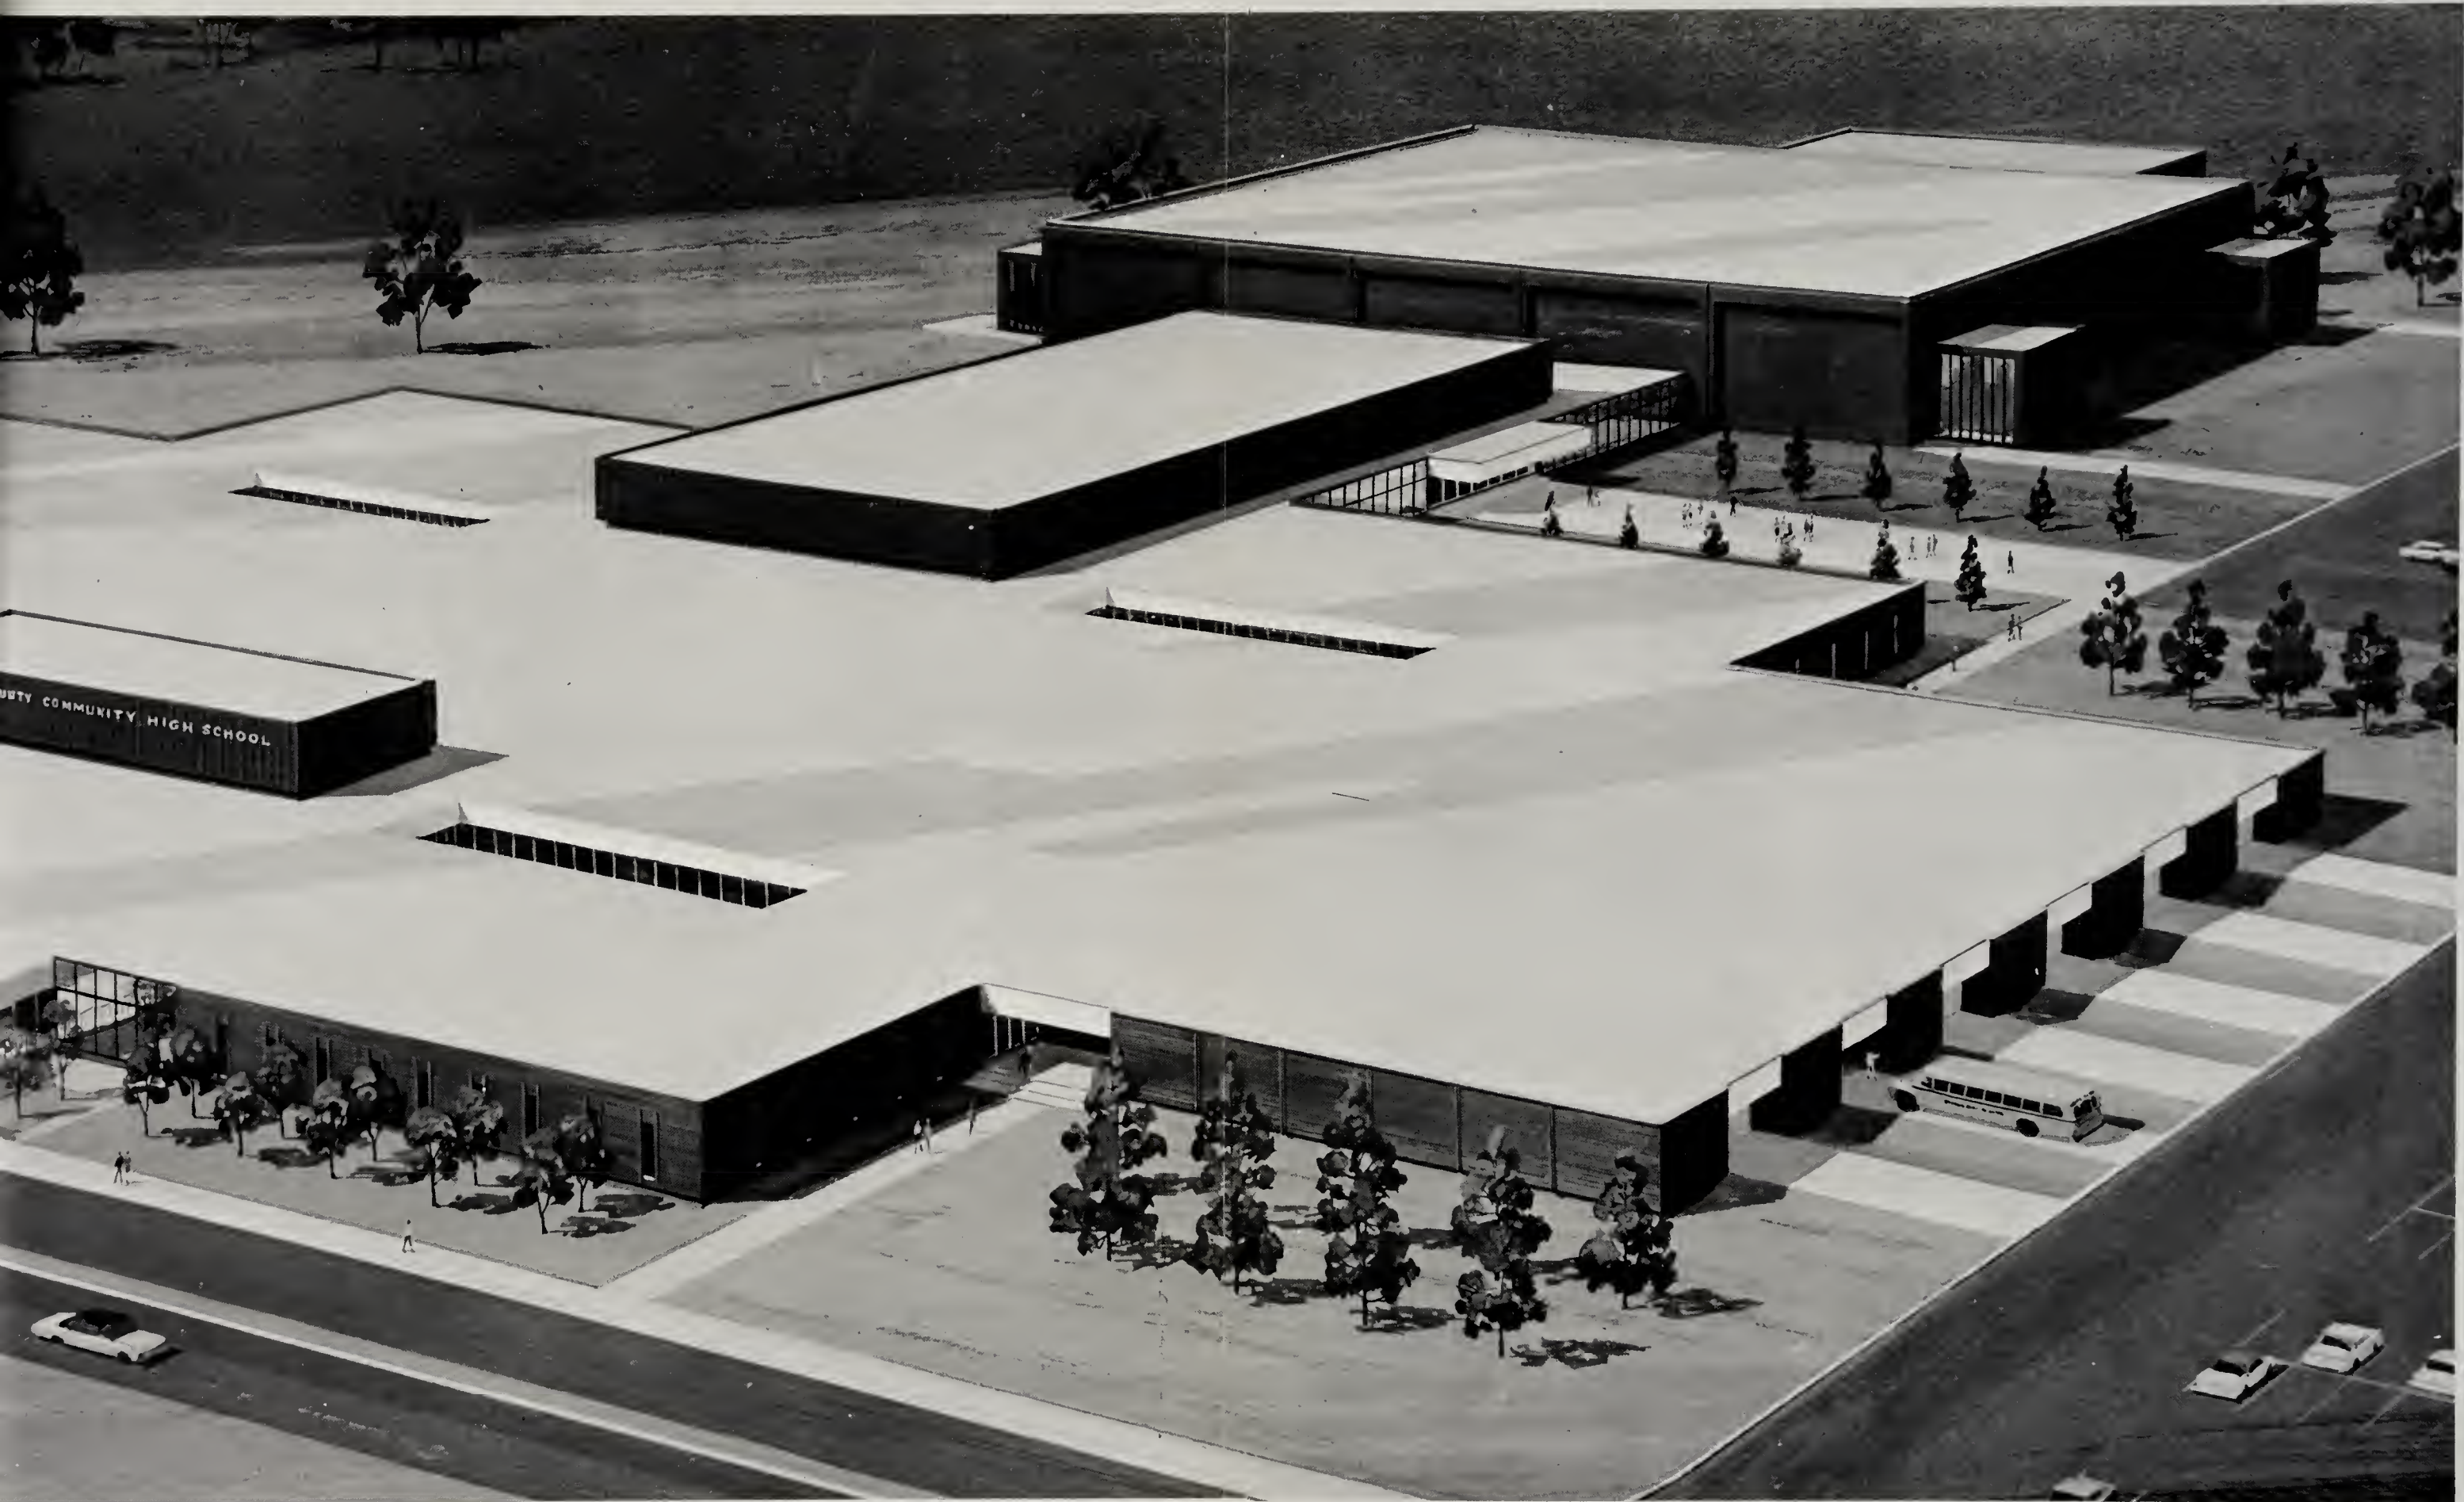

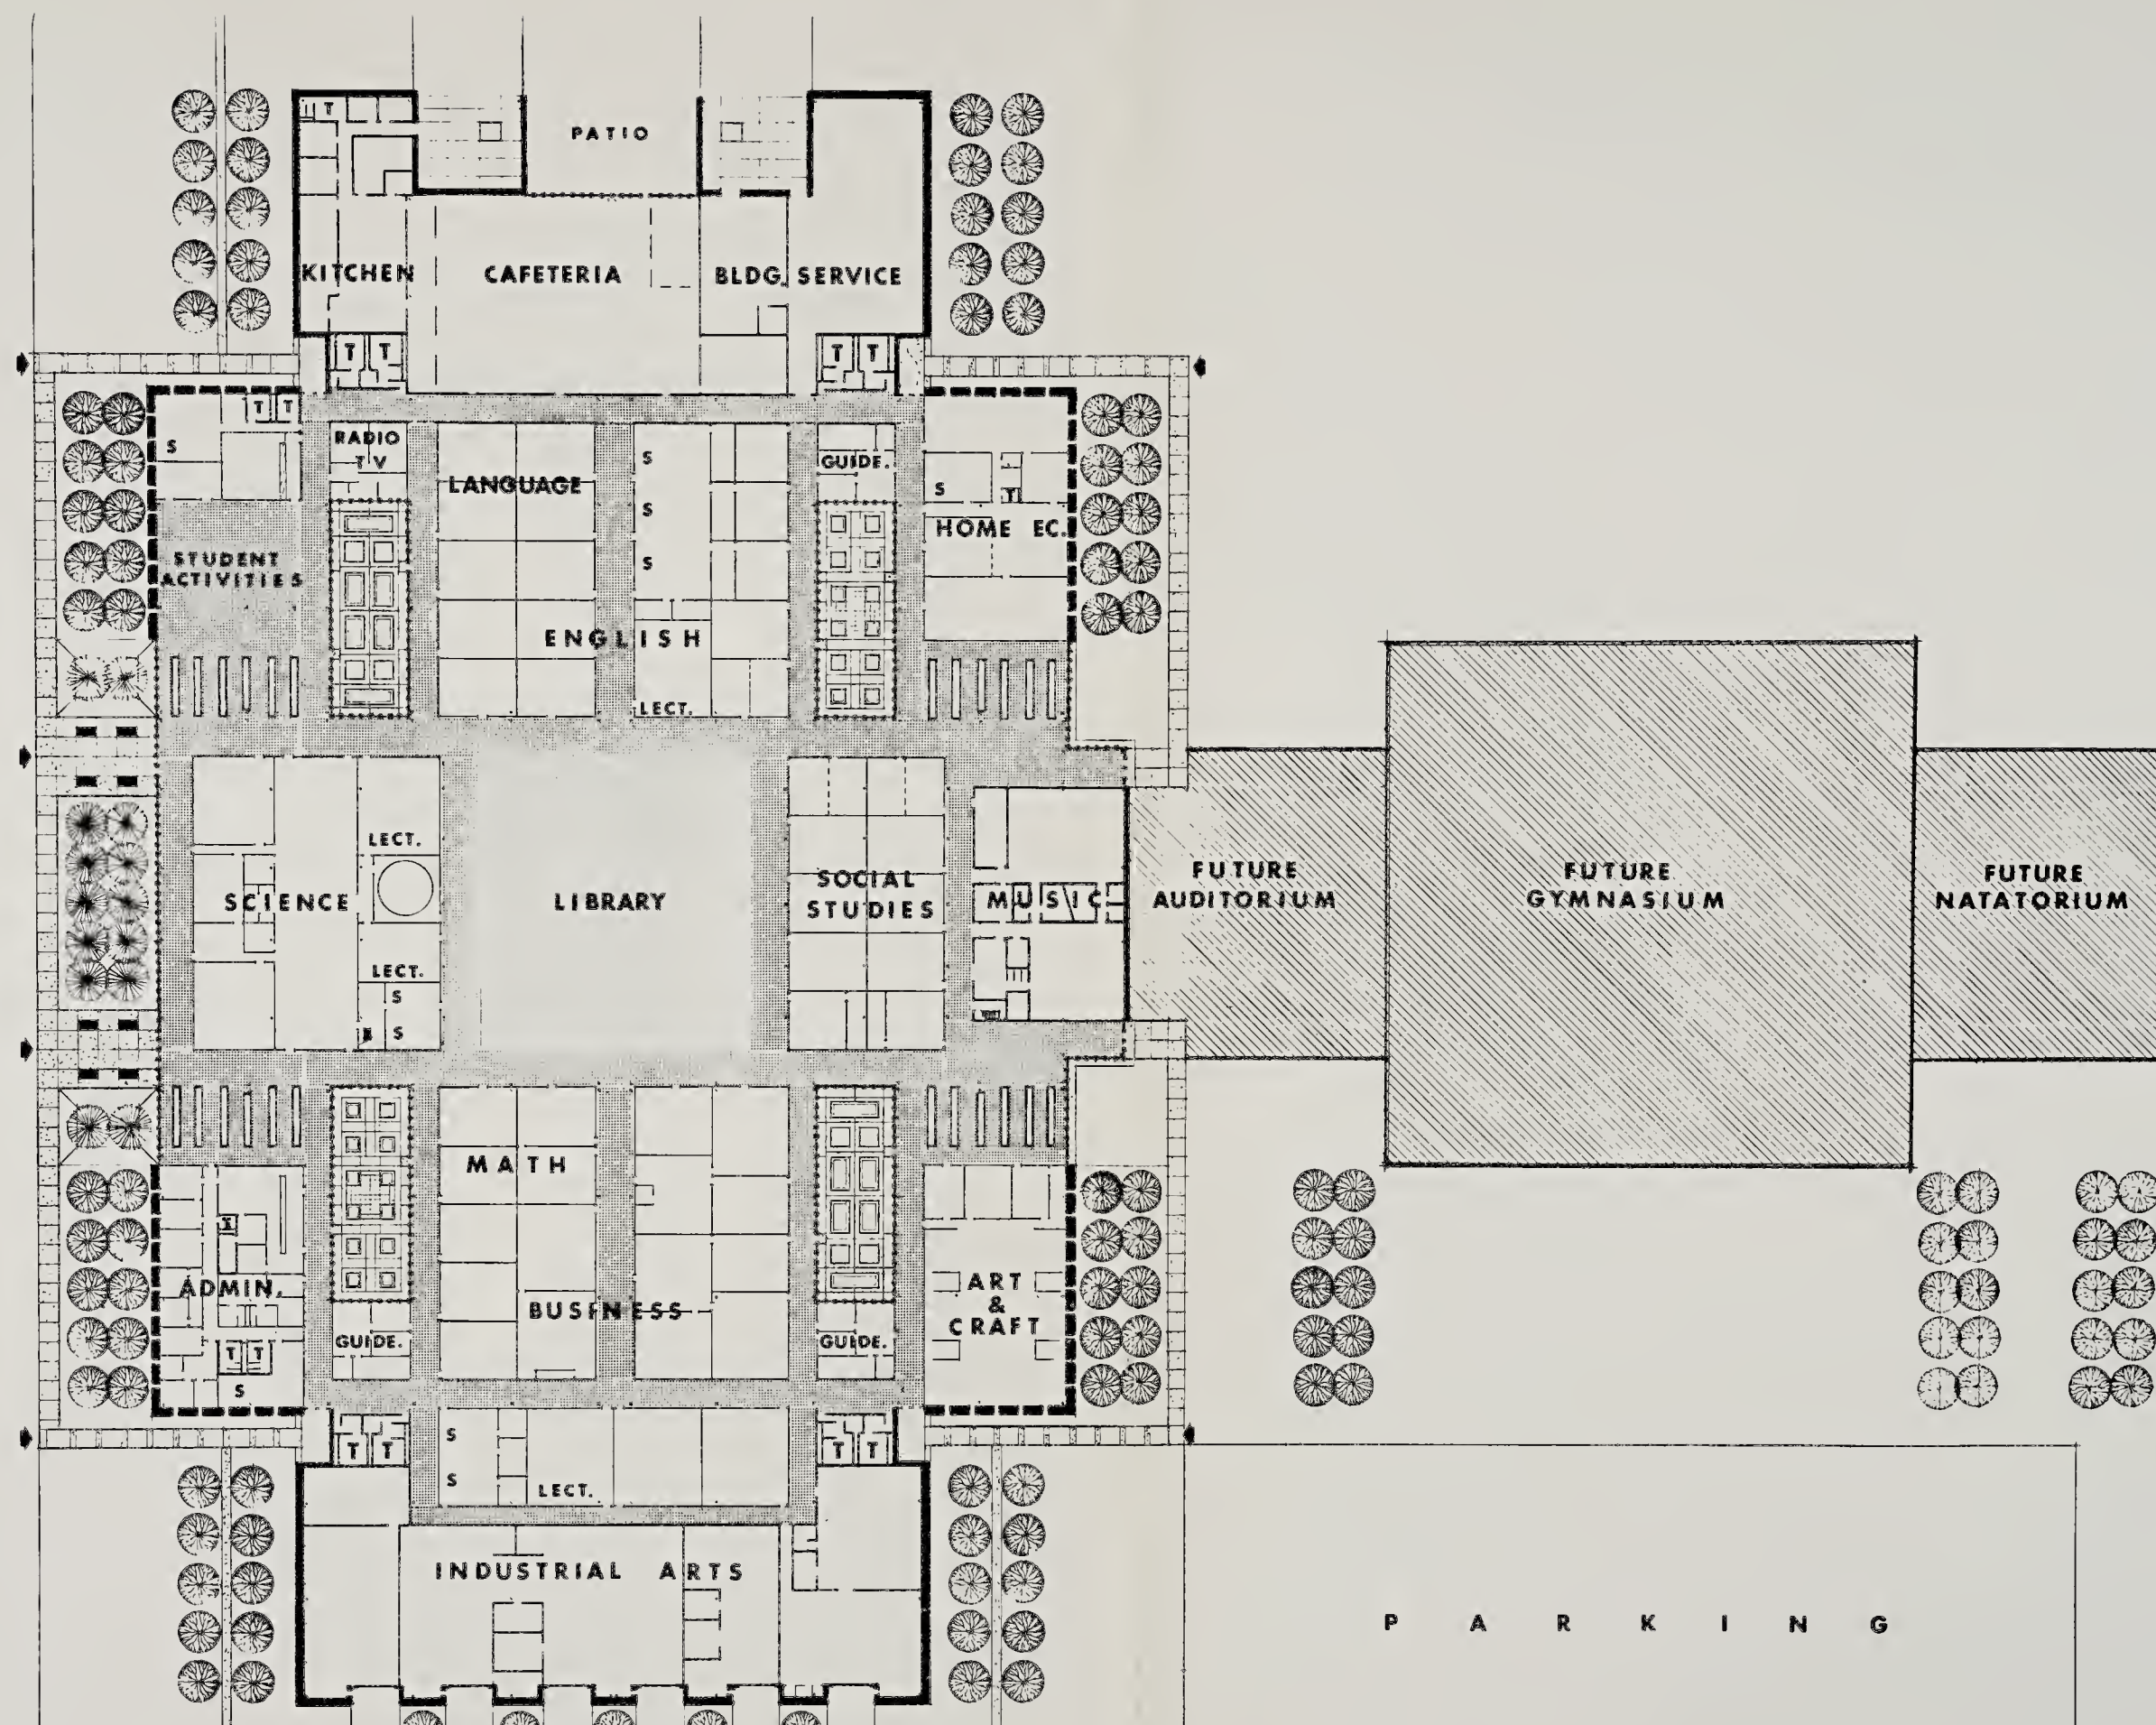

After the initial havoc of a Teamster's strike was settled, the construction of the new Senior High School progressed until completion in the fall. The transformation of a corn field into a modern institution of education required a combination of girders, concrete and plate glass. The architects, Lennox, Matthews, Simmons, and Ford of Indianapolis attempted to design the structure where it would best facilitate the students and faculty. Spacious classrooms, open-air courts, and a student commons were some of the things which became feasible as the school went from blueprints to super-structure. When the last workman left, a new era of education began in Huntington County. Yesterday's dream for the future had been realized today.

Crop production, soil conservation, and land management became familiar subjects to the students enrolled in any one of the six courses of agriculture. Under the direction of department head, Jerry Boyer, classes were conducted using the problem-solving technique. Possible situations were presented to the students and their solutions were discussed. By applying practical experience, they learned to make decisions and to plan their businesses efficiently. Working on special projects, on their farms and jobs, and belonging to Future Farmers of America helped students to learn by doing.

Dropped paint jars and clay spattered faces were just two of the accepted accidents of Art classes. In color fundamentals, beginners learned the basics of color combinations and how to apply them. Members of Art II created three dimensional objects. Having studied other levels of the course, third year artists experimented with an independent study. By using slides and films, all learned the history of the course. James Spuller organized a group to study in Europe for further art education. Studying in Rome and touring Paris and Florence filled the hours of the days spent in Europe.

Business Department

A world of typewriters, adding machines, and duplicators was opened to the students of business. Laboring over transactions and practice sets, bookkeeping enrollees found that correct figuring was important. Sore fingers and aching backs were characteristic of typing students. Members of this course endeavored to remedy their two-finger method of typing, while those taking shorthand studied their "hieroglyphics." Office machines students were oriented to business equipment. Business math classes delved into the mathematical problems of the profession, and those in business law and business english perfected their skills.

Industrial Arts

With the assistance of two new teachers, the Industrial Education Department aided students in furthering their trade skills. Scott Knecht and Dan Berry with ten former instructors taught the basic and higher levels of industrial courses. Using a trial and error method, members of the courses received first hand experience by working on the exercises required in each of the various classes.

Students were placed on jobs ranging from auto mechanics and body work to dental technology.

Further background could be obtained through the work of a foremanship. Selected by the instructors, boys who achieved outstanding work and leadership qualities shared teacher responsibilities. Aiding the cultural development of the students constituted a part of the job of the English Department. Also, the department sponsored a trip to Fort Wayne to see the newly released movie version of Romeo and Juliet.

Speech and Drama students learned the primary techniques of speaking and acting from Larry Harris, their new instructor. Informative, persuasive and impromptu speeches were presented by speech students, while drama students practiced the acting procedures of the stage.

Foreign Language

Second year German and Latin students showing an interest for further knowledge of their respective languages were rewarded with the addition of third year courses to the curriculum. HCCHS welcomed Ron Curtis, a new first year German teacher, to the school teaching staff. Also, Roger Howe returned to instruct students in Spanish after one year of extended study at Purdue University. The department received several new record players for use in pronunciation exercises. In February, the German classes took a trip to Cincinnati to see The World of Gunter Grass. In this production, characters presented cuttings from several of Grass' novels. Home Economics Department

In her first year as department head, Alice Sell expanded the curriculum of the Home Economics Department. A new course, Child Development, provided students the opportunity to observe the mental and emotional growth of an elementary school age child. Interior Decoration and Gourmet Foods offered increased knowledge of the practical art of homemaking. Boys were encouraged to enroll in Marriage and Family Living. All courses gave students a chance to experience the trials and tribulations of home management.

"Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief . . ." Students contemplated this familiar childhood jingle as they planned for high school and beyond. With the help of the North and South Campus Guidance Departments, students were able to decide which courses to take. The guidance staff helped them to realize their scholastic opportunities and to make career choices. SAT and Achievement tests, required by most colleges and universities for acceptance, were administered. The department gave National Merit Tests to interested juniors. However, this was only a guidance counselor's routine work. There were tearful girls and angry boys whom they helped adjust to difficult courses and teachers.

Science Department

To accomodate the move of the entire sophomore class from South Campus to North Campus, new facilities were needed in the Science Department. A former classroom was converted into a combination lecture-laboratory room. As the result of a new fume hood, students obtained relief from the "rotten egg" odor of hydrogen sulfide experiments. Extra cabinets provided needed storage space for flasks and test tubes. The thirty-four classes offered were designed for all ability levels of students at HCCHS. Courses ranged from Earth Science to Physics. Students planning to continue in a scientific vocation and those seeking greater understanding learned to appreciate the world around them.

"Do not splice the broken films with scotch tape" was one of many rules student projectionists had to remember. Under the supervision of Carolyn Butt, Audio-Visual students brought the far-away places of the world to the school. Operators faced the thoughts of misplaced films and conflicting film schedules in order to relieve the work of the department staff. New projectors were presented to the English, Foreign Language, Science, and Social Studies departments to avoid the confusion involved in film and projector transportation.

Library

Throughout the school day, an average of fifty students every period took advantage of the many books, encyclopedias, and magazines in the school library. It proved to be the favored spot for researching for reports and last minute cramming for semester tests. Due to the large number of pupils using the materials, it was necessary for two student librarians to work every hour. Librarians, Carolyn Butt and Thelma Hippensteel, were faced with a problem when students could not locate the desired books. In order to solve this problem, they introduced all sophomores and juniors to the basics of Library Science.

Learning the fundamentals of mathematics proved enjoyable as well as practical under the direction of the Math Department staff and its head, Lowell Buzzard. In addition to the basic courses required for graduation, advanced courses were offered to those students working toward a math major. Each course taught was a foundation for the next course in sequence. Students preparing for college were channeled into higher levels of study while those not pursuing a math career fulfilled credit requirements. Various visual aids and models of mathematical figures furthered the teachers efforts in developing an appreciation for the beauty of mathematics.

Creating an atmosphere of delicate strains of music combined with contrasting beats and rhythms, the Music Department swung into an activity-filled year. Because of the large enrollment, the band divided into two sections which played at alternating basketball and football games. In an attempt to give students an insight into the value of music, a Music Appreciation class was added to the curriculum. Those taking part in the Music Theory class presented a recital of their combined talents. Snatched from classroom to stardom, the Varsity Singers appeared on the Ann Colone and Wayne Rothgeb Shows.

During their classes, students cast their votes for national, state, and county officials. In accordance with the department, awards were presented to several outstanding students. These consisted of the DAR Award, VFW Voice of Democracy Award, and the Presidential Classroom candidate.

Thespians await rise of the curtain

Masque and Gavel

While visions of missed cues and forgotten lines danced in their heads, the dauntless Masque and Gavel members presented various productions to the audience. Taking part in the Fall Revue was the first endeavor of the group. Their presentation of I Am A Nation displayed their talents. Christmas time brought the actors back on stage as characters in "Mugsy's Merry Christmas." Masque and Gavel was also the co-sponsor of the annual senior play in March.

A new approach to dramatic literature was initiated by the Reader's Theatre. This group presented productions in which the audience was asked to take an active part in the presentation.

Travelers find new customs and interests

Germany, Scotland Trips

To students traveling abroad with Susan Troyer, Germany became a temporary home. Four days a week for one month, linguistic courses were studied at Schiller College in Kleiningersheim. A guided tour of the Cathedral at Cologne, a boat ride on the Rhine, and a visit to Heidelberg were among the many extracurricular activities. Before returning home, a weekend was spent in Lucerne, Switzerland, and a day in Rothenburg ob der Tauber where the group attended an outdoor theatre.

Weekend trips to Edinburg, Aviemore, and a recreational resort interested students touring Scotland with Carolyn Petrucelle. Subjects studied in the morning at the University of Dundee included Scottish Highland History, Archeology, and Modern Drama. The trip concluded with a two week tour of the interesting spots of Europe.

Shakespeare festival lends a cultural atmosphere to Stratford

Stratford Trip

In late August, thirty girls, six boys, and an abundant number of chaperones gathered at the North Campus parking lot and waited. Three hours later the delayed bus arrived. Thus began the English Department's annual trip to Stratford, Ontario. Days were spent enjoying "fish and chips," bagpipers, and canoeing. The purpose of the trip was not forgotten as students puzzled over The Three Musketeers, The Seagull, A Midsummer Night's Dream, and Waiting for Godot.

Thirty South Campus students took the same trip in July. They saw a ballet, the opera Tartuff, and the performance of Romeo and Juliet. Many enthusiastic students have considered returning to sample other plays. "Farewell Stratford, until next year."

Jr. Historical Society

Tombstone hunting was the favorite pasttime of the HCCHS chapter of the Indiana Junior Historical Society. They collected names from tombstones in Huntington County which were dated before 1910. Divided into four groups with the officers as leaders, members climbed over fences and through weeds to carry on their hunt. After many weeks of searching, the collection was sent in for state judging.

During the meetings, guest speakers informed the members of important happenings in the field of history. Among these speakers were Charles Wohlford and Robert Montgomery, state director of the IJHS. During the school year, club president, Debbie Doversberger, served as state vice-president of the Northern district.

"A real castle?" exclaimed the members of the German Club as students who toured Germany the previous summer told of their home abroad. Along with stories of the castle came interesting tales and adventures and humorous incidents. Rainer Peukert, a German exchange student from Huntington Catholic High School spoke to third year students, giving a view of German tradition and the culture of his country. Rainer, also, voiced a comparison of the German and American ways of life.

During the summer, the German Club purchased several pieces of reference materials pertaining to Germany and the German language. These consisted of a set of dictionaries, books about Germany, and several German short stories and plays.

International week raises students' fare

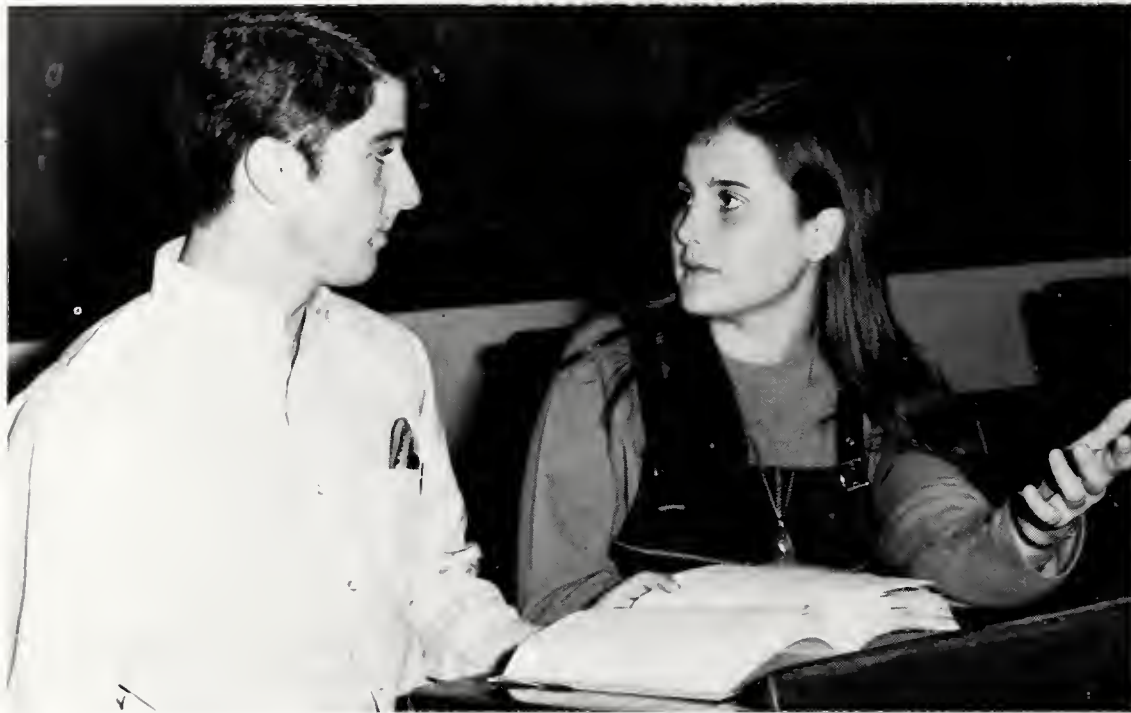

International Club

Exchange students from HCCHS presented the International Club's annual auditorium program: Their adventures while inhabiting discotheques, shopping in boutiques, and sightseeing around town sparked interest in foreign travel. Consequently, four foreign students were invited to HCCHS second semester. During International Week, club members collected donations for "share the fare." Proceeds from the drive were used to finance the foreign students extra curricular activities. Each student spent three Sundays in April visiting homes in the community acquainting their "families-for-a-day" with the Exchange Program. The club officers accompanied all Huntington County Exchange students on a tour of local industrial plants.

Exchange Students

Four South American exchange students studied at HCCHS during the second semester. Ester Roca from Santiago, Chile stayed with the Walter Buchholz family. Of the foreign students, Chilean Ricardo Glucksmann, living with Jamie Heaston's family, was the most impressed by this country. He admired the high standard of living, well-equipped schools, and household luxuries of Americans. He was disappointed to find that soccer was not popular here, but he learned to enjoy Hoosier basketball. Andre Luiz de Martino Ferreira and Vera Regina Toledo were both from Brazil. Gina had trouble adjusting to the coldness of our climate. She also expected Huntington to be a city full of skyscrapers. Andre noticed that the people of the United States are more reserved than his demonstrative countrymen. Both the Brazilians missed their favorite feast, the "Carnaval," a holiday comparable to the Mardi Gras.

Sunshine Society

Guided by their motto, "Others," members of Sunshine Society performed many charitable activities. Among these were caroling throughout the county and planning religious programs for the student body at Thanksgiving and Easter. To raise money for the organization, Stanley products were sold by the members. With these funds the Sunshine Society sponsored the annual Sweetheart Dance. In October the District Convention met for the first time in Huntington. Betsy Bilyew was chosen by the district sponsors to be a representative at Youth Power, a food industry conference. Sponsors were Alice Sell and Helen Kreiger.

Volunteers help under- privileged in Viet Nam

Red Cross

By shipping Friendship Boxes to the people of Viet Nam, the Junior Red Cross waged war on unsanitary conditions. Disinfectants, bandages, medicinal aids and other supplies hard to obtain abroad were sent in abundance. Occasional meetings at the Court House on Wednesday nights provided contact with the leaders in the adult Red Cross organization. Young members assisted in recruiting donators for the Bloodmobile Bank and other community functions and projects.

In hopes of finding money for the annual can drive, Red Cross officers Mary Stocksdale, Carol Buchholz, and Ernie Klein even search the wastebaskets.

Career selection is club's major goal

Checking the different occupations, Pam Carpenter, Linda Meyer, Colleen Abbott, Jan Huebner, and Susan Wright decide on health career.

Health Careers

Helping students choose their field of specialization was the goal of the Health Careers Club. Frequent field trips to various institutions broadened the members' knowledge of the different aspects of medical science. Among the places visited were the Fort Wayne State School and the Huntington County Hospital. Students were encouraged to investigate the diversified areas of medicine in order to make a wise choice in planning for the future. School nurses, Pauline Bryan and Thelma Goodnight, directed the activities and arranged for guest speakers from medical schools in the area.

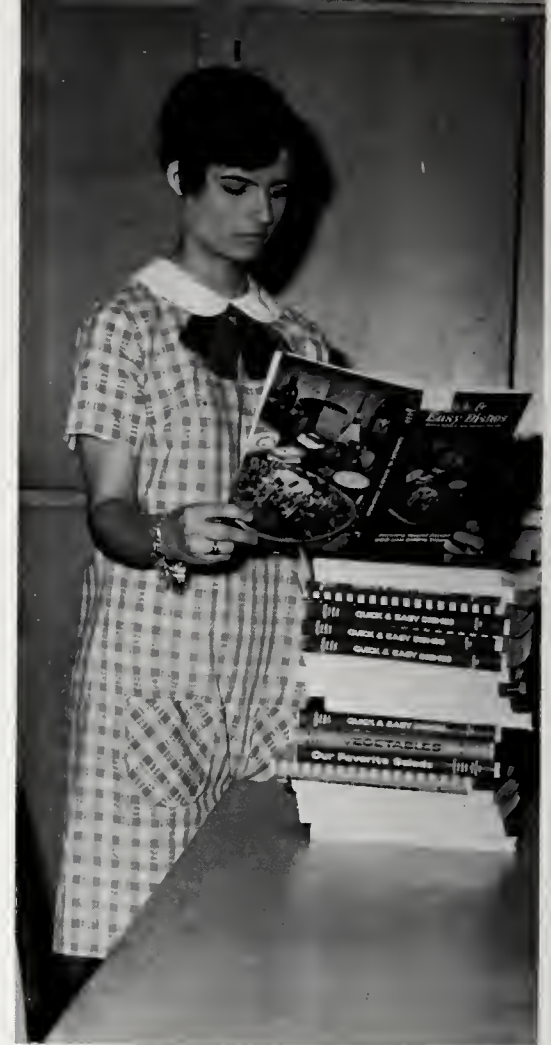

Sponsor Pauline Bryan supervises Colleen Abbott as she practices for her future career in medicine.

Future Homemakers

Future Homemakers of America aided girls in learning the practical ways of homemaking. Presentation of the annual style show, in the spring, kept members of the club quite busy. Girls participating designed and constructed their own outfits. The ability to coordinate colors and fabrics was considered in the judging. In order to raise funds, the club sold cookbooks which Home Economics teachers compiled and edited. These books gave the user insight into the art of brewing up scrumptious dishes. In order to improve the physical hygiene conditions of the Navajo Indian reservation, the organization sent needed materials.

Mistakes change to masterpieces

Fall Revue Rehearsal

Act five, take eighty-three exhibited the perfection the sponsors of the Fall Revue expected at rehearsals. Amid forgotten lines, minor and major mistakes, lost props, and lighting and sound confusion, cast members and directors managed to keep their wits. The phrase, keep cool, calm, and collected issued forth from the performers as they reassured each other of a certain success on the final two nights after the long, trying, but rewarding nights of rehearsals.

Making a last minute script change, directors Helen Kreiger and Jean Smethurst anticipate trouble with the new format.

Fall Revue

"Tiny Tim", imitated by Delmar Weesner, delighted the audience as he "tiptoed through the tulips" at the first HCCHS Fall Revue. A steering committee which consisted of class officers, a Student Council committee, and students representing each community of the county, met to gather ideas and themes. Jean Smethurst and Helen Kreiger worked many weeks as sponsors perfecting the chosen theme of "Love and Laughter". Other teachers screened acts, worked behind scenes, and participated in the program. Students proved their outstanding talent as they took part in the production. Introducing and concluding the show, cast members entered singing "What The World Needs Now." Student directors, ushers, makeup girls, sound men, stage managers, and light crew proved important to the success of the revue.

Student Council

Due to the loss of the Student Council gavel, the THUD-THUD of a rubber King Kong statue brought the meetings to order. Taking this in stride, the Council, assisted by the student body, sponsored an all-school revue. Presentation of Honorary Student Cards enabled senior citizens to attend home ball games and school plays. Viking luck was with the Council when its name was drawn from a hatful of Indiana school names to attend the National Student Council Convention in Baltimore.

"Vote for the New Generation" was the popular cry heard in the halls of South Campus as its candidates were elected as Student Council officers. With the help of the students, the Council was able to supply material goods to a needy family at Christmas.

Christmas Dance

Girls and their escorts emerged from the wet, windy reality of the night into a wonderland of "Mid-winter Magic" at South Campus. This dreamlike atmosphere was created by the Student Council dance committee and its members. They spent many hours at work in order to transform the gym into a starlit forest of evergreen. Couples in semi-formal attire abandoned childish snowball fights to assume a more sophisticated manner. Jimmy Stier and his orchestra provided music for dancing. A bridge and pond with floating candles completed the outdoors effect. Sprigs of mistletoe suspended over the footbridge indicated the appeal of ancient Christmas customs.

Retailers of tomorrow learn today

Future Retailers

To build vocational understanding and civic consciousness was the purpose of the Future Retailers Club. Only those students participating in the Distributive Education Program gained membership in the club and worked half days at local establishments. Judged on their public speaking, sales, demonstrations, ad layouts, and window displays, members took part in a state contest. By employing their sales techniques, they sold calendars to raise money for the organization. Using these funds, the club gave several parties for handicapped children in the Lancaster area. Years activities were climaxed by a spring banquet, hosted by the FRA members for their parents and employers.

The officers of Future Retailers, Jerry Galo, Jane Geiger, Chris Graft, Cathy Welsh, and Debbie Haneline, add up their future in the business world.

Choir

Delightful diversions from the hum-drum school day were the mysterious basement rooms marked "Chorus—G. P. Price." Within these rooms a simple score of music unfolded into an inspiring musical masterpiece. Divided into three sections, the Choral Department consisted of Concert Choir, Mixed Chorus, and Girls Glee Club. Presenting the opera Noye's Fludde was the major undertaking of this department. Selected from the Concert Choir was Varsity Singers, an extracurricular choral group. They presented various musical programs to local clubs, schools, and other special functions. Their annual concert was presented in the fall. During the latter part of the year Glen Price, director of the Choral Department, left to continue his studies in music. Industrial Arts Club

Amid the high hopes for the future, the first active year of the Industrial Education Club proved to be successful. More participation in community and school affairs was the goal for the years ahead. A work day in April helped to replenish the club's treasury. Field trips to Fisher Body in Marion and the General Electric in Fort Wayne, added to the activities of the club. Members attended an awards banquet in May in honor of the outstanding achievers. These extra curricular activities and actual labor experiences deepened the boys' interests and participation in the Industrial Arts field.

Science Club

Senior Science Club member, Tammey Naab, represented HCCHS at the Junior Academy of Science at Ball State University with a thesis entitled "Growth Cell of a Soybean." Other members of the club accompanied her and attended the afternoon sessions of the academy. A program committee, instead of the usual officers, took charge of the club in deciding the activities. Interesting and significant activities were brought to the attention of the club by this committee. Max Fordyce, Robert Diffenbaugh, and Charles Shriner, sponsored the club. Charles Shriner supervised several members in learning how to develop pictures.

The results from many weeks of study by Tammey Naab are being completed for the thesis paper she entered in the Indiana Jr. Academy of Science.

Future Farmers

Through participation in speech contests and animal marketing, members of the Future Farmers of America Club obtained valuable and indispensable farming knowledge. Meetings, into which the understanding of parliamentary procedures was incorporated, were held monthly. During these meetings, state officials and other outside speakers presented educational programs. In addition to these lectures, members took part in farm work and other activities which made the learning of agricultural technique more enjoyable. Recognition of their achievements was acknowledged at the annual awards banquet in the spring. As was the custom, members of the club selected their Chapter Sweetheart. The honor was bestowed upon Marilyn Schilling.

Future Teachers

Students planning a career in education were introduced to classroom methods by taking part in the activities of Future Teachers of America. Members received actual experience with children of elementary school age by participating in exploratory teaching, a branch of FTA. Under a master teacher, these students observed and learned classroom techniques. Realizing the importance of a good relationship between teachers and school administrators, the club organized a panel discussion with representatives from both groups. Field trips to various teaching institutes gave students a look at the diversity of the field. They included a trip to the Riley School for the Retarded.

Discussion Club

Participation in Roundtable gave students an opportunity to express their opinions in an orderly manner. Subjects under discussion dealt with the new movie code, religion, student unrest at college and other similar topics. The sponsors, George and Jean Smethurst, designed the club with the plan of probing the controversial aspects of life. An attempt was always made to present both sides of the argument realistically from an objective point of view. Activity periods passed quickly as students became absorbed in major world topics.

Awards

Aimed at acknowledging students who had been scholastically outstanding, various organizations presented numerous awards. Seniors who ranked in the upper fifteen per cent of their class and the top five per cent of the students in the Junior class were chosen as members of the National Honor Societies. The Kiwanis Club presented the top five per cent of the graduating class the distinguishing KBF award. Chosen on the basis of citizenship and academic achievement, nine seniors spent one week of their previous summer attending Boys' and Girls' State. Other individual awards including DAR, Rotary, National History Achievement, and the National Council of Teachers of English Award were granted.

Newspaper Staff Compiles Chronicle Of Weekly Events

Headlines that do not fit, stories that cannot be written, and pictures that will not come out right are the catastrophes that The Campus staff overcomes every week. The staff's job is to present complete coverage of the activities of both North and South Campuses. Every Wednesday night finds the undaunted editor, typists, and page editors working late into the night in order to "put the paper to bed" in time.

Pages complete with pictures, articles, captions, and ads are delivered to the Print Shop for printing. Without fail, every Friday during fifth and sixth period The Campus reaches the newsstand. Papers can be obtained by subscription or by weekly purchase from a Campus staff member. As the last paper of the week is sold, the editors have visions of improving the next issue.

Jean Bond Guides Staff

According to Jean Bond, "Teaching is as intriguing as an actual news beat. Something different happens every day." Her first year on the staff of HCCHS has proved to be a very interesting one. She especially enjoys her work with The Campus staff. Since the girls and boys had been thoroughly trained before she came, routine work on the paper went as smoothly as any newspaper could. She also brought the adventures of litera-

Winners of the "Deck the Door" contest in the religion division are first place room 102, an angel at an organ playing "Silent Night." Debbie Layman and Valerie Bennett were co-chairmen of this door. Second place winner was room 105, which pictured a world with the words "Peace on Earth." Melissa Reed and Jenny Armstrong headed the decorating of this room. In the secular division, room 310, with Santa and eight reindeer captured first place. Debbie Williams, Linda Davis, and Beth Smelser had charge of this door. Opinion Poll Taken Of Staff

"Star light, star bright, first star I see tonight; I wish I may; I wish I might; have the wish I wish tonight." When The Campus staff members were asked this question, many different answers were given. May all your wishes come true.

Jenny: "A one way ticket to New York City."

Ginger: "That all the Journalism students would meet their deadlines."

Denny: "That I would be as cool as Tom Davis."

Susie: "I wish that the Campus stapler would not run out of staples."

Sandy: "That Eloise Schenkel had my great bookkeeping ability."

Tom: "A million dollar contract with the Green Bay Packers or the San Francisco Giants. Also to get to heaven."

Gail: "To become a famous newspaper woman in New York."

Margie: "That every other one of my wishes would come true."

Susie: "A beach house in California and my own car."

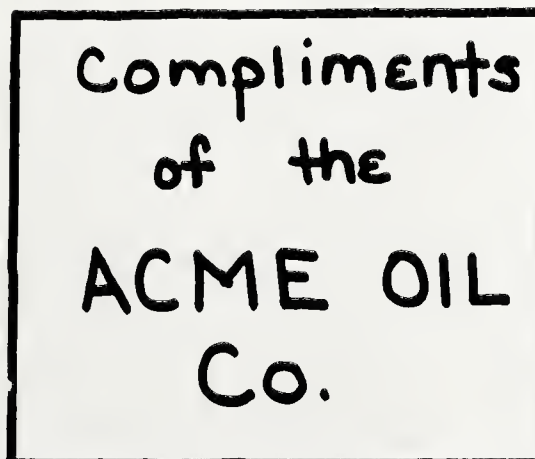

Jenny Warfel

Editor - In - Chief

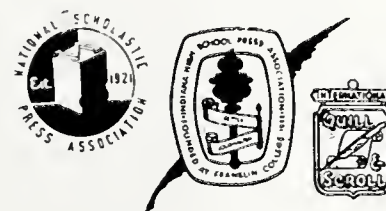

"My three years on the Campus staff have been exciting, interesting and educational. I was locked in the school twice, ate twenty birthday cakes, defaced a clock and somehow printed ninety issues of The Campus," laughed Jennifer Warfel, editor of the school newspaper.

Jenny worked on the paper as a reporter her Sophomore year, a page editor as a Junior, and this year is editor-in-chief. She has found that the publishing of a newspaper takes up a lot of her extra time.

Last summer she received a scholarship to attend the Journalism workshop at Indiana University. The Herald Press presented this scholarship which covered her two weeks of study at the institute. As far as her future plans are concerned, Jenny hopes to major in literature at a nearby college or university.

DEKA

Missed deadlines, lost negatives, and broken typewriters were but a few of the problems which plagued the DEKA staff. Concentrating their efforts on compiling a great yearbook, the eighteen seniors, twenty juniors and three sophomores relinquished much of their spare time during the year. South Campus advisor Wilma Johnson relieved several of the problems created by two campuses. Having checked and re-checked the last pages, the seniors turned over their materials to the upcoming staff.

Competition and enthusiastic spirit build

Homecoming

Decorated cars, class floats, and a school band equalled a parade. Vikings and Apaches equalled a football game. Five senior girls equalled a queen and her court. All these added up to the 1968 Homecoming. "Vikings Beat the Others Cold," "Viking Raid," and "Salem On To Victory" were several of the commercial-theme floats constructed by students. Traveling trophies were presented to the Junior Class and Student Council for their entries. During half-time, it was announced that Nancy Buzzard would reign as queen. Her court consisted of Cindy Anderson, Connie Snowden, Debi Williams, and Jan Ziegler. Following the game there was a dance at the National Guard Armory.

Booster Club

"Sock-it-to-'em, Vikes" was the battle cry of Booster Club members as they led the football team to a share of the CIC title. After school every Thursday, students met in the metal shop to paint signs for the halls. Others decorated the downtown store windows with catchy, spirit-building phrases. Booster Club sponsored a bonfire before the South Side football game. The energetic Senior class won the wood-gathering competition as they had predicted. Two hundred T-shirts with Viking emblems were sold; they quickly became popular school attire. High points of Basketball season were the Sectional, Regional, and Semi-State Pep Sessions, which the Booster Club, Cheerleaders, and Student Council's Loyalty and Sportsmanship Committee sponsored.

Boys' Cheerblock, H-Club

Six and a half dozen masculine voices contributed to the first boys cheerblock of HCCHS. The block consisted of H-Club members and other interested senior, junior, and sophomore boys. Unexpected and sometimes questionable yells were a few of the headaches encountered by chief censors, Charles Hayden and Jack Sell. Their mascot, an old rubber chicken, sparked spirit and enthusiasm into the block.

Unity among various athletics was the principle goal of H-Club. All athletes who had received a major letter were eligible for membership. To promote spirit while earning money, Viking Booster Buttons were sold at the time of the Basketball sectional.

Pride and prejudice displayed by girls

Cheerleaders

Viking spirit echoed through the empty bleachers of the Community Gym every Monday after school. Two hundred and twenty-five girls rehearsed yells of encouragement for the basketball team under the direction of the Varsity Cheerleaders. Cheerblock sponsor, Barbara MacDonald, supervised them. In the early part of the season the cheerblock remained calm and reserved, but as the season progressed into Sectional, Regional and Semi-State play their spirits and voices rose to a frenzied pitch. They balanced the wild antics of the boys' cheerblock with more orderly displays of enthusiasm. Every Thursday before Booster Club the six Varsity Cheerleaders practiced old yells, created new ones, and discussed methods of improving the effectiveness of the Cheerblock.

Stumped by Coach Meadows plan, Rick Conwell and Bob Stephenson take "five" to plot their own strategy.

Absorbed in the season's final statistics, Jim Meadows and Chuck Wohlford ponder on next year's hopes.

Cross Country

The dynasty built by Jim Meadows continued to reign throughout the 1968 campaign. Coach Meadows led his cross-country team to another undefeated regular season, which included extending their unbeaten string in dual competition to thirty-two consecutive victories over the past three seasons. However, the team was unable to come up with strong performances in the important meets during the post season.

Lack of depth hurt the Vikings in the CIC meet as Rick Conwell, Bob Stephenson, and Bill Huffman finished second, third, and fourth respectively, while the next two Huntington runners placed fifteenth and twenty-second. A total of forty-six points gave HCCHS third behind Tipton and Wabash. The harriers were unsuccessful in their attempt to defend their 1967 sectional title and they finished fifth. Stephenson led the team by getting fifteenth. Coach Meadows was optimistic about next year's squad as Rick Conwell and Joe Copeland were the only varsity lettermen lost due to graduation.

Varsity Football

Although the future looked bleak early in the season, the Huntington County Community High School football team finished with one of its most successful seasons since consolidation in 1966. After the first three games the Vikes had a mediocre 1—1—1 record, including an 0—1 record in the conference, and had lost Captain Tim Reahm for the season due to an injury. But Coach Young pulled them together, and the gridders won five of their last seven games including all remaining conference games. With this came a share of the Central Indiana Athletic Conference football title for the first time in three years.

Probably the biggest thrill of the season came when with three seconds left in the game Dave Kaylor completed a nineteen yard desperation pass to Lenny Poehler for a touchdown and Robin Goebel booted the extra point to beat Hartford City. Many individuals were rewarded for their outstanding efforts throughout the season. At the conference banquet, Mike Millner, Tom Brown, and Tom Schenkel were named to the all-conference team. Pete Stambazze gained second team honors, and Kim Griffith, Paul Whitesell, and Dave Kaylor received honorable mention. Whitesell also got honorable mention on the Associated Press all-state team, while Millner was one of thirty-three to gain a berth on the Bloomington Herald-Telephone all-state squad.

A stout defense enabled the B-team to shut out four of its last five opponents, while relinquishing only four touchdowns during the entire season. The reserve team, under the guidance of Paul Buzzard, finished with a respectable 4—1—2 record.

Freshman Football

Although five victories in an eight game season does not seem particularly impressive, it was a different case for this year's freshman football team. Three ties completed the remainder of the schedule as the gridders gave Coach Jim Hildebrand his first unbeaten record as the frosh mentor. Included in the season were victories over three of four CIC opponents. Moreover, the future Vikings played both rival Marion schools without tasting defeat the first time in several years. Coach Hildebrand was skeptical about next year's squad as he will have no returning lettermen.

Wrestling

For the first time at HCCHS wrestling became a varsity sport. Although they were winless in nine matches, the grapplers benefited from the many hours of practice spent after school at the YMCA. Senior Doug Hall, wrestling in the 145-pound class, lost to only four of his twenty opponents, while winning his class in the CIC meet at Tipton and placing second in the Sectional at New Haven. Don Grossman, also a senior, had an 8—5—1 record in the 175-pound class. Coach John Severns indicated that a lack of a sufficient number of boys to compete in every weight class handicapped the team as they had to forfeit valuable points every match. With Hall, Grossman, and Rex Johnson as the only seniors on the team and the hope that more interest will be aroused in the sport, Coach Severns expected to field a more experienced team next year.

cop sectional, regional, conference titles

Varsity Basketball

Winning streaks and slumps, surprises and disappointments highlighted the 1968-69 basketball season. Coach Marvin Tudor's cagers' CIC hopes suffered a blow early in the campaign when they played poorly in a loss to Elwood. However, the Vikes rallied to win their last six conference contests; thus, setting the pattern for the entire season. Rolling along with a 7-3 record and just fresh from winning their first Huntington Invitational Holiday Tourney, it looked as though the roughest part of the schedule was passed and it would be smooth sailing to tourney time. But the Vikings just couldn't seem to get going in 1969 and lost six of their last ten games, all against non-conference foes.

The highlight of the regular season came in the last home game when the Vikings faced Peru, needing a victory to stay in contention for the conference title. The cagers responded by demolishing the Tigers, setting a new scoring record in the process. A week later, Wabash knocked off unbeaten Elwood, enabling the Vikings to clinch a tie for the crown. HCCHS became thoroughly enveloped in Hoosier Hysteria in early March due to the Vikings' success in the state tournament. The Vikes stormed through the sectional with unexpected ease. Then, as they revenged a regular season defeat to Bluffton in the afternoon game of the regional, whipped Kokomo in the finals, and prepared to meet undefeated, second-ranked Marion in the Fort Wayne semi-state, enthusiasm mounted to an unprecedented high. Although the outcome looked dismal when the Giants ran up a sixteen point lead with less than eight minutes left in the game, the valiant Vikes gave one last gasp and only a three point margin remained when time ran out in the game and the season. Huntington hosted the Conference banquet and climaxed the year by Dave Kaylor's selection to the all-conference squad. Mike Parker and John Maples won second team honors, while Phil Rich received honorable mention.

Coach Wally Stoffel's Scydllings also had a successful season finishing with a 13-7 record. Junior Tom Cowden was the leading scorer, averaging 9.5 points per game. Bob Stambazze's 7.1 average paced all sophomores.

Dan Williams was the leading scorer with a 10.0 average. The Red B team won all ten of their games to give Coach Wayne Kreiger his second consecutive unbeaten season. Leading scorers with 7.3 averages were Pat Lineback and Dave Hower. The White A squad had the only losing record, dropping ten of fifteen contests. Dan Widmeyer paced Coach Larry Handwork's squad with 15.4 points per game. A six and four record by Scott Hosler's White B team enabled the cagers to post a composite record of thirty-one wins and twenty-one defeats.

Despite injuries Vikes are rugged rivals

Track

Once again HCCHS' track team proceeded to be masters in their field. The Viking thinlies formulated a good start winning ten meets, while losing only to Logansport and tying Fort Wayne Snider. Costly injuries took their toll throughout the year. Junior Ron Tinkle missed the first half of the season due to a leg injury. Sophomore sprinter Jim Ulmer was lost for the rest of the season after pulling up lame at the conference meet. An unprecedented fourth straight CIC title highlighted the year. Tom Schenkel led the Vikes, successfully defending both his 100 and 220 yard dash titles. Vic Shipbaugh took the shot put and Chonny Michael's record leap of 21' 5 3/4" captured the long jump. The regular season included a revenge of last year's one point loss to Marion and a third consecutive Lime City Relays title. Other school records set were Kevin William's 15.3 in the high hurdles and 5' 11 3/4" by Mark Kiracofe in the high jump.

sports awakens interest

GAA

An opportunity for girls to take part in social and intramural sports events was provided by the Girls' Athletic Association. Among the various sports were softball, football, volleyball, gymnastics, basketball, badminton, tennis, and soccer. Meeting three nights a week, the members participated in a different sport each night. Thursday night brought the members into the gym to practice their lay-ups and foul shots for their extracurricular basketball games. Nine games were scheduled for the year including a four-way tourney. In addition to the weekly meetings the GAA had several parties. Girls took part in an overnight campout, a Christmas slumber party, a bike hike, and a swimming party. The final event of the year was the annual GAA banquet for members and their parents. At that time, awards were presented to the outstanding members.

Planning and directing the activities for North Campus are officers Chris Lewis, Ann Herring, Chris Fields, and Tracey Flynn.

Baseball

The Viking baseball team had two things in mind at the beginning of the season: one was to win their third straight sectional crown and the other was to win the CIC baseball summer league. The Vikes' place of finish in the league would determine the winner of the CIC All Sports Trophy. Coach Paul Buzzard's crew finished the rain plagued regular season with a 5—4 record. Larry D'Amato, Tom Davis, John Wagner, and Joe Kline headed the pitching staff. Leading the Vikes' hitters were Tom McCutcheon, Brent Hardin, Greg Smyser, and Kline. As a team the Vikes had an impressive .305 batting average. Dave Carnes, Kim Griffith, Dave Kaylor, and Greg Hedrick led the team in defense on the field.

Golf

Although they failed to successfully defend their Conference meet title, the Viking golfers were in the midst of completing their best season ever. Capturing eleven of their first sixteen matches, the linksmen were assured of becoming the first team in the school's history to have a winning season. The squad lost only to Marion, Warsaw, Fort Wayne, Elmhurst, all of whom were state finalists the previous year, and Bellmont. Bill Winningham led the team with an average of forty-one strokes per round. Rick Maples had the low eighteen hole total with a seventy-six against Elmhurst. A big disappointment came with the poor showing in the CIC meet. A team total of 350 placed the Vikes fourth, twenty-eight strokes behind champion Peru.

In hopes of salvaging a par, Joe Musser takes a short cut through Clear Creek.

Viking netters serve defeat to CIC foes

Tennis

With no major letterman returning to this year's squad, tennis coach Wayne Kreiger was pessimistic at the beginning of the season. However, after the first nine matches the netters had racked six victories, including an unblotted 4—0 record in conference play. It looked as if only defending champion Peru stood in the way of HCCHS's first CIC net championship. The sport took on a new outlook as a fall schedule was added in preparation for the state tournament. Bill Graves, the only senior on the team, was runnerup in the sectional singles. Coach Kreiger was looking forward to successful teams in the future because of the youth and experience of this season's team.

Mass construction compounds problems

Working on the rough draft of a letter to a prospective teacher, Assistant Superintendent Robert Ayres molds the teaching staff for the coming year.

Administration

With the construction of the new school already under way, Superintendent Lawrence Foote and Assistant Superintendents Robert Ayers and David Adams attempted to keep all the problems of mass construction under control. The daily routine of the "White House" staff continued regardless of the forthcoming changes. While others were mapping out the plans for the new school, Harold Johnson handled the coordination of secondary education. Carrying on with the official business of a school corporation, the School Board elected two new members, Juanita Anson and David Culp. They filled the spots that were left vacant by Max Wamsley and Milton Marx, whose terms had expired.

While ordering classroom furniture, David Adams, assistant superintendent, checks color schemes.

Fulfilling his job as secondary education co-ordinator, Harold Johnson observes a class.

Weight of responsibility means long hours

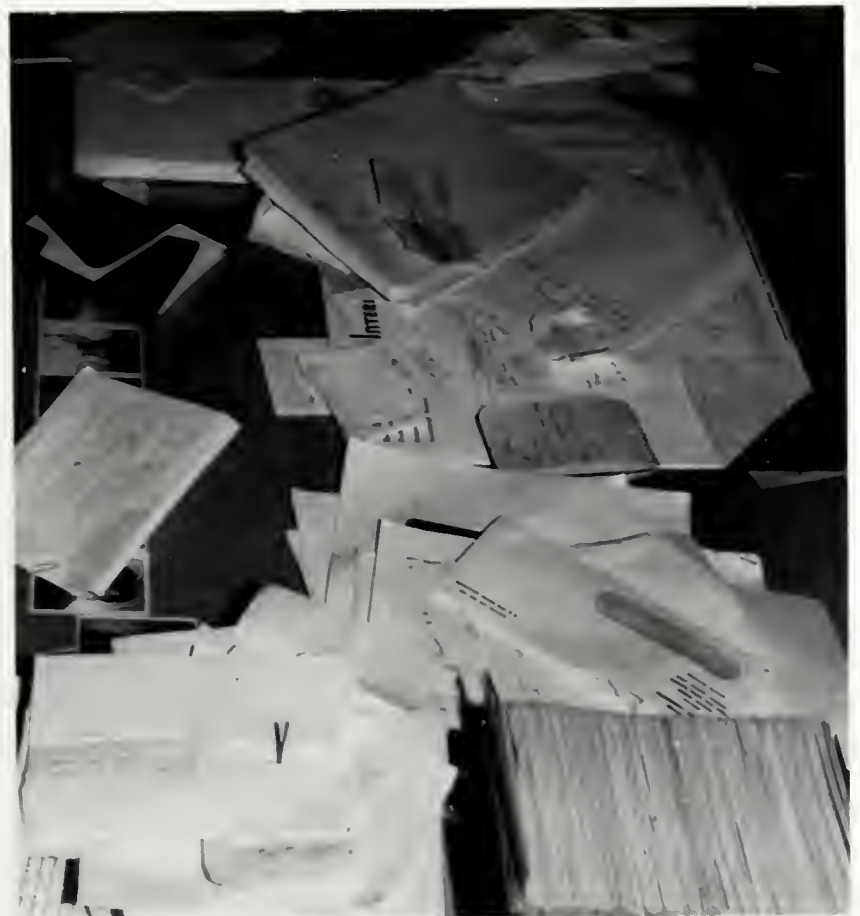

James Funk relaxes while he reads at his principals desk at South Campus.

Principals and Deans

Robert M. Straight, who came to this county ten years ago as basketball coach and physical education teacher, has held membership in the elite society of high school principals for the past two years. With this honor came a bundle of responsibilities. Consider the headaches of trying to recruit a substitute teacher fifteen minutes before the first period bell. Assistant principal, Leon Stong shared these emergencies, as well as the sometimes-less-than-interesting school administrator conventions. Richard Goshorn did double duty as assistant principal and dean of boys. Dean of girls, Helen Kreiger divided the first part of the year between North and South Campus, but gave South up to Bernice Poehler, attendance officer. Principal James Funk, maintained South Campus as a completely separate unit.

Helen Kreiger firmly instructs Carol Buchholz that slacks are not the proper attire to wear to school.

Ready to face the trials and tribulations of the day, Pat Yates and Pauline Oswalt arrive at South Campus.

As a part of her numerous duties, Deans' Assistant, Catherine Stahl collects absentee slips.

Working hours filled with various tasks

During a much needed and well deserved coffee break, North Campus secretaries Jean Tallman, Eloise Schenkel, and Emily Wilson survey the plans for their new office.

Secretaries

In the words of Principal Robert Straight, "The secretaries are the ones that make the school operate." The dedicated women he referred to are Emily Wilson, registrar; Jean Tallman, receptionist; and Eloise Schenkel, treasurer. Keeping South Campus in smooth running order, secretaries Pat Yates and Pauline Oswalt proved to be indispensable. Typing, answering telephones, and collecting book rental money were just a few of the many tasks that these secretaries confronted each day. The doors of their office were always open to students, teachers, and visitors who needed information on any aspect of the school.

Busy making the dozens of cookies required to feed students at North, Florence Bond, Dorothy MacFarlane, and Winfred Smith try to finish on time.

As they peel tons of potatoes, Jane Hunt and Kathryn Betz imagine them being devoured by an army of students.

Cafeterias

To cure students of hunger pains and to quiet their growling stomachs, the cafeteria staff was on hand. They prepared such remedies as pizza burgers and parsleyed potatoes. Each fifth and sixth period, students packed the lunch line to recover themselves from the final stages of starvation. After completing their meal, students left; but the cafeteria workers stayed behind to clear the tables of milk cartons and salt grains which were used for meal time entertainment.

South Campus cooks Lucille Feightner, Edna Swearer, Edith Scheerer, Vesta Baxter, Roberta Hartle, Doris Keel, Bernice DeWitt, LaVerta Boner, and Joan Stanley rest before the onslaught of Frosh.

Janitors make HCCHS a clean scene

Janitors

Faster than a speeding litterbug, more powerful than ammonia, able to sweep tall buildings with a single swipe . . . it's super-janitor! Super-janitor is only a minor exaggeration of the heroism of the eight HCCHS custodians. A typical janitor took chewing gum off chairs and clouds of chalk dust in stride. Between polishing corridors and emptying wastebaskets, he found time for chatting with students and dispensing advice. He was the public relations men between students and faculty. To him we bequeath the care of the new school.

Arriving bright and early to aid in the up-keep of North Campus are Charlie Thompson, Bob Swearer, Wilbur Rusher, and Dick Thorn.

South Campus janitors are Stanley Farthing, Harold Wright, Erma Brown, and Earl Swearer.

Having checked road conditions, Rex Armstrong says that school will be closed.

Bus drivers mark up many miles driven

Transportation

Neither rain nor snow nor sleet nor hail kept the twenty-two HCCHS bus drivers from delivering their riders before the tardy bell. Not only did they transport students to and from school, but they also played Santa Claus at Christmas by giving candy and surprises. They also took Physical Education students from North and South Campuses to the YMCA through-out the year. Other duties consisted of driving students to extra curricular activities. Amid daily shouts and screams and loud card games, the bus drivers calmly drove on, doing their part in aiding the pupils of HCCHS further their education.

Taking a moment to relax while school is in session are bus drivers Doris Conwell, Joe Wehr, Bill Cramer, Shirley Bowman, Glen Bowman, Harry Hartle, and Sib Hardin.

Future architects draft four year plan

During an informal meeting in the hall, class sponsors Shirley Ross and Terry Harrell discuss plans for the upcoming Freshman party.

150 Freshmen

Freshman Class

Establishing their own identity, the freshmen freed themselves from upperclass influence by being the only ones to occupy South Campus. They did not have to compete with upperclassmen, and had separate clubs and organizations. Although the freshman class was the largest with approximately 600 students, the halls were not as congested. Transferring of sophomores enabled the students to put more emphasis on academic competition rather than on class competition. A party in May ended the year for the freshmen at South Campus.

Sophomores united in class and spirit

Sophomore Class

A new situation arose for the sophomore class as it was united at North Campus. Traditional ordering of class rings was again a part of the activities. All members participated in taking the National Educational Development Test which measures each student's ability to apply basic learning skills rather than his ability to memorize facts. Some sophomores experienced the thrill behind the wheel when they enrolled in the driver's education course.

Popcorn, Pepsi, floats, Oriental prom

Junior Class

Junior candysellers dominated the football and basketball seasons. They were determined to sell their popcorn, candy, and Pepsi whether Viking fans were hungry or not. A few persistent sellers resorted to cornering children with pockets full of pennies. Meanwhile, other members of the Junior Class were creating a Homecoming float which won first place. After a hectic week in May of prom-decorating headaches, the Junior Class unwound at their own party with an evening of refreshments, dancing, and ear-splitting music provided by the "Irresistible Force." Having completed their duties toward the out-going seniors, they relaxed in a spirit of self-congratulations.

Working on the construction of a great junior class are officers Judy Oden, secretary; Betsy Bilyew, treasurer; Tom Cowden, president; and Lenny Poehler, vice-president.

Fervor of senior class strikes early

Senior Class Party

Members of the senior class found that they had contracted bad cases of "Fall Fever" while attending the class party in November. Top concession sellers of last year were honored as part of the program. Several venturesome boys and girls tried their mouths at the pie eating contest. Having stuffed themselves with confections, contestants attempted to whistle the school song. Entertainment for the evening was supplied by the "Glass Calendar."

Winner Kevin Williams whistles the game to a stop.

"Fall Fever" party chairmen are Elaine Little, Mike Fulton, Marilyn Beal, Bill Moldenhauer, Margie Weir, Barry Shafer, and Cindy Anderson.

Fittest survive twelve-year book battle

Senior Class

The seniors had their first chance to show their superiority at the Booster Club bonfire. They proved it with wood by the truckload. But "pride cometh before a fall" and the juniors struck back at their elders by winning the Homecoming float competition. The rest of the year the Senior Class engaged in wild speculation about what kind of prom the juniors would provide for them. Seniors had more confidence in their parents who put on the post prom. One of the class' most cherished victories was when they were given the option of taking final exams or staying home and accepting their grade average, minus a final test score. Three cheers and good luck to the Senior Class as they move onward to college, careers, and the draft.

The last path is cleared as sponsors Riva Rethlake and Jerry Baker prepare Kriegbaum Field for Commencement.

Keeping their sled under control as well as they did the class activities are senior officers Joan McClure, Rick Maples, Linda Davis, and Phil Rich.

Tammey Naab

Ronald Harvey

Four years of study nets highest awards

Top Scholars

By maintaining a 4.000 average the honor of Valedictorian was achieved by Tammey Naab. Due to her high scholastic standing, she was a member of both the Junior and Senior Honor Societies and received the Rotary Award for maintaining an "A" average. Majoring in English and Math, she also participated in four years of band and was a member of the dance band. Last summer, Tammey studied at Michigan State University on a grant from the National Science Foundation. Doing work comparable to that of a College sophomore, she studied biology and mathematical theory. After graduation, Tammey plans to attend Purdue University where she will study cancer research.

Ronald Harvey, with a 3.9078 percentage, became the Salutatorian of the 1969 Senior class. Ron's activities consisted of band for two years, German Club, Parliamentary of the Student Council, 4-H, and Junior and Senior Honor Societies. Also, during the previous summer, he attended Boys' State. English, Math, Social Studies, and Business majors kept Ron busy during his four years of high school. He plans to study at Manchester College next fall. Although uncertain about his major, Ron hopes to study political science and become a lawyer or to study business administration and become a certified public accountant.

180 Senior Play

Senior Play

Monsters and vampires and ghouls, oh my! All abounded in the Senior class presentation of "Boys and Ghouls Together" in the North Campus auditorium. Dark castle corridors with high stone ceilings and winding stairways provided the setting for Dracula's attempt to snare a husband for his young ghoul, Dirga. Add granny's love potion and one reluctant American Youth hosteler to the scene and the action unfolded with fiendish cast members enthusiastically portraying twentieth century monsters. In spite of the collaborating, Dirga remained dissatisfied with her parents' choice because she had dreamt that love would resemble an enchanting thunder clap. Then, one romantically stormy evening the Magnificent Marvellini appeared and captured young Dirga's heart. The one time groom-to-be was released and sped on his way as wedding plans were made and the curtain dropped.

Breakfast ends four years of Sunshine

SSS Breakfast

Senior girls, their mothers, and teachers attended the annual Senior Sunshine Breakfast, honoring the senior members of the society. President Cindy Kramer welcomed the group and her mother answered with a response. Senior choir girls entertained with two musical selections. Newly elected officers for the 1969-70 year were installed by the outgoing officers. Each received the pin of her office. The traditional friendship circle and the presentation of a single yellow rose to each girl completed the program for the breakfast.

Reception

Since the Class of 1969 had the reputation for initiating tradition, they felt it only proper to leave the school with one last attempt at something new. Unable to think of anything else, the class decided to plan a reception to be held before the Prom. Innumerable varieties of delicious food, prepared by the cafeteria, garnished the serving tables and tempted the appetites of many seniors and their guests. Due to the large number who made reservations for the meal, it was necessary to eat at three different times. However, there were plenty of shrimp, roast beef, fish, salad, and dessert for all. Decorations were white and yellow daisies on the tables.

festival concludes last grand day of '69

Senior Prom

"Matsuri Omisaki," Japanese for Festival of the Grand Last Day, proved a fitting title for the 1969 senior prom. Three hundred twenty-five starry-eyed girls and uncomfortably tuxedoed boys were caught up in the magic of the romantic oriental setting. The Japanese mood was created with cherry blossom trees, ming trees, a bridge over a flowery pool, and intriguing landscape murals. Decorations dominating the armory were a red pagoda bandstand, an immense Buddha, and a mountain with a real cascading waterfall. The theme was even carried over to the refreshments which included fortune cookies with cryptic messages.

Sayanora Sakitumi a big success

Post Prom

Boys and girls dressed in casual clothes and cooley hats and bleary eyed parents dominated the atmosphere at the 1969 Post Prom party. Parents of the Senior class who hosted the party chose "Sayanora Sakitumi" as the main theme. Entertainment for the morning program was a professional magician and a Texas cowboy comedian. Money door prizes were awarded on the basis of program numbers drawn from a hat.

Ham and hot dog sandwiches, snacks, and soft drinks were served in great quantities. As an early morning refresher, doughnuts, milk, and orange juice was distributed to the sleepy eyed seniors.

Baccalaureate

Seniors finally realized that the end was near as they found themselves attending their own Baccalaureate ceremony. Speakers for the service, Reverend Coleson and Reverend Pence, urged the graduating class to hold fast to the ideals and goals that they had formed throughout their high school years. As a gift to the seniors, the Churches of the county presented the entire class with the Bible of their choice.

While the remainder of the class receive their diplomas, these Seniors wait patiently for commencement and high school to conclude.

Commencement

Four hundred and seventy-six solemn seniors received their diplomas at Commencement exercises held for the first time at Kriegbaum Field. Ron Harvey, Salutatorian, welcomed the graduates and a crowd of 3,000. In his speech, Ron urged his classmates "to be the answer instead of the problem." Visions of past dances, parties, and school activities flashed through the minds of the graduates as Tammey Naab, Valedictorian, voiced the Address of Farewell. As the Class of 1969 marched off the field and into the future, they carried with them the hopes and dreams of tomorrows leaders.

WILL YOU ONLY BE "ONE OF THE CROWD"?

Will college be a hectic blur, or time to build the person you are meant to be? Crowded schools make you a statistic, lost in the file. Huntington College keeps you an individual with small classes, non-frantic schedules, and a blend of mental and spiritual guidance. You can be yourself; understand yourself; get ready for the life waiting after graduation. Isn't college meant to be a preparation for life?

Confusion transforms to completion

Closing

Between curing the midnight measles and competing with foes for an around-the-school track record, staff members put forth a fanciful effort in producing the 1969 DEKA. Serious attempts to relate what work went with which position kept co-editors busily preoccupied. It proved difficult to explain to eighteen seniors that were portraying various celebrated personalities that they were mere mild mannered yearbook workers. After the period of explanation and readjustment, the DEKA staff began to collect and create items that would recapture the 1969 school year.

The construction of the new senior high school was the center of attention for students, faculty, administration, and residents of the entire county throughout the year as they patiently awaited completion. As construction moved closer to completion, so did the 1969 school year. While 1969 was a climax in the lives of the seniors, it was also the beginning of a new school year for the underclassmen who would become the first occupants of the new building.

1969 held memories and moments never to be forgotten as in any other year. But along with remembrances of yesterday and experiences of today, 1969 beheld shades of tomorrow.
